Tuesday State Section Day

General session on Tuesday, October 1, was presided over by Captain P. F. Thompson, Commanding South Carolina Highway Patrol, general chairman of the IACP State and Provincial Section. The University's Role in Police Training was discussed by Richard H. Stottler, Assistant Dean, University of Maryland, College Park, Md., in which he ably covered the objectives of general and specialized training, stressing that the educational process is at its successful best when it is a continuous one—a beginning without an end. Pertinent briefs from his paper are reported in this issue.

Mr. Lyman B. Kirkpatrick, Inspector General of the Central Intelligence Agency, Washington, D. C., described events demonstrating that the free world police are the target for communist subversion, solemnly reminding law enforcement officials that they are a bastion of democratic processes that must not surrender to these onslaughts.
